BACHELOR OF COMMUNICATIONS

This wide-spanning and flexible degree will prepare you for a career across many areas in the rapidly expanding field of digital media and corporate communication.

This course will provide you with key technological skills and knowledge, as well as an understanding of the issues and debates that concern media, communication and information in the world today. In your first year, you will be introduced to the different areas that make up mass communication. In your second and third years you will be introduced to the two streams in which you will specialise: Web Media and Marketing.

Web Media

This stream provides a pathway to a career in the expanding field of web-based media and communications, from website creation to online community management. The stream emphasises on social media and networking, and units combine practical components with core concepts to give you the necessary understanding and skills you need in the socially productive and culturally rich online environment.

Marketing

Marketing is one of the most important functions in building and maintaining a successful business. It's a dynamic area that involves differentiating the firm from its competitors and persuading the target market to purchase its products or services. In this stream, you will understand and apply marketing principles within specialised areas of marketing. These areas include international marketing, marketing research, services marketing, consumer behaviour, retail marketing and internet marketing.
